ANNUAL ADDRESS.

President Shakespeare's Conceptions of Our Province and Its Resources.

Beneficial Results Derivable from Exhibitions—Agricultural Pursuits—Great Wealth.

Mr. N. Shakespeare, M. P., the retiring President of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, at the dinner last Thursday evening delivered the following ADDRESS.

GENTLEMEN:—I congratulate the members of the British Columbia Association that within the past year changes have been wrought tending to the physical development of our country's interests which cannot but prove of lasting advantage to every branch of trade, commerce and industry. Our province is no longer the terra incognita it once was, but owing to the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway the inhabitants of the Atlantic seaboard are brought within six days' comfortable travel of the Pacific, wholly through British territory, whereby the wealth of the Orient will find its way in an ever-increasing volume to minister to the diversified wants of the dwellers in Oriental countries, and in return for the advantage we shall reap as the result of railway construction and intercourse with far distant peoples, new markets will be opened up for the disposal of our surplus manufactures, the products of our soil, and the inexhaustible resources of our mines and fisheries.

The display this year of agricultural, horticultural and other natural productions of our province, shows a marked improvement, both in quantity and quality, as compared with years previous. We have had ocular demonstration as to the adaptability of both soil and climate in British Columbia for the production of grain, plants, vegetables, and dairy products in the highest state of perfection; and as for horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry the indications of progress are both satisfactory and encouraging.

Not only are these annual gatherings pleasant seasons of social intercourse, but the object sought to be obtained is of high import. To be a successful agriculturist the farmer must be more than a hewer of wood and a drawer of water. To a certain extent, he should be familiar with the science of chemistry, understand the nature of the soil he cultivates, how to preserve its vitality, and also to derive from it the largest measure of profit for the labor expended; the soils even on the same farm sometimes greatly differ in their chemical properties, it is of importance to the farmer to know just the kind of grain or vegetables best adapted to certain kinds of soil, and just the kind of treatment the soils should receive in order to bring it to the highest state of fertility, hence the bringing together of a large number of persons on occasions of this kind engaged in agricultural pursuits, leads, or should lead, to an interchange of views based upon practical experience in relation to matters agricultural, such as cannot but result in general advantage to all concerned. The same observations will apply with equal force to the cultivation of vegetables or fruits. To ensure an abundant crop of any kind of vegetables or fruits, a thorough preparation of the soil by careful tillage and thorough drainage are essential prerequisites.

Hitherto the people of British Columbia have derived at least three-fourths of the necessaries of life from the United States and elsewhere, a fact which has tended very materially to retard the growth of the country and the development of its vast resources. We may fairly anticipate better things in the future. The effect of railway communication on the island and on the mainland, with a prospect of extending the island railway as far north as Cape Scott, will be but to open up the country to settlement and give a stimulus to every branch of industry; both the mining and agricultural interests will shortly experience the infusion of a new life, and many now solitary places will be made glad with fields of ripening grain, and the hum of many a stamp mill as they reduce the gold bearing rock with which our mountains are literally supplied will infuse life and enterprise in many a lonely place at present completely isolated.

Stock raising will always constitute a source of wealth to our country, and the exhibits of cattle, sheep and hogs, which it has been our privilege to witness here at our annual exhibition demonstrates how well adapted our country is for the growth of the highest grades of animals. The introduction of first-class stock for raising purposes is a step in the right direction, and will eventually prove a lasting benefit to the country at large. Clearly there are many visible signs of improvement in the department of industry. Not the least interesting feature of the present exhibition, as on previous occasions, have been the mechanical and arts departments.

As the agricultural resources of British Columbia are somewhat limited compared with Ontario and the other provinces, its future prosperity depends upon the development and growth of manufactures. Every enterprise of the kind established amongst us should receive the cordial support of all who desire to see this country keep pace with others in the march of progress.

With a genial climate, vast undeveloped resources, embracing farms for farmers, mines for miners, timber for lumbermen, fish for fishermen, there need be no fear but British Columbia will in the near future become one of the greatest provinces of the Dominion of Canada, as as she is one of the greatest in geographical extent.

In conclusion I would say in the language of an eloquent writer, on the science of agriculture, "Let it be remembered that in the simplest operations of this most honorable of pursuits, the farmer who proceeds not upon chance or by merely traditional habit, but on sound principles, is elevating his calling from the mere drudgery of toil to the dignity of science, as he seeks to co-operate with nature's beneficent laws and to secure his full share of her beauties. If he keeps this steadily in view it will give a new charm to labor, and present at each step fresh objects to awaken his interest or to stimulate his ambition to excel."

A Kentville, N. S. correspondent tells the Halifax Chronicle that Leander Rand, M. P. P., is shipping to a London, England, commission merchant, 1,200 bbls Gravenstein apples. The crop of Gravensteins in King's county alone will amount to 20,000 or 30,000 bbls.

SMITHE IN KOOTENAY.

The Premier Promises to Make the Kootenay Navigable.

A correspondent of the Kamloops Sentinel writing from Wild Horse Creek, gives a report of Hon. W. Smithe's visit to Kootenay. The writer says: "The Hon. W. Smithe received a deputation of the settlers of this portion of the vast district of Kootenay, at the residence of Lieut.-Col. Baker, M. P. P., Cranbrook, on Thursday, 16th September. Col. Baker addressed the premier on behalf of the settlers, and pointed out the necessity of having a road along the Kootenay river. He, Baker, also suggested that it might be wise for the government not to conclude the arrangement it entered into with W. Baillie Grohman, concerning the turning of the Kootenay river into the Columbia river, without making sure first, whether it would improve or lessen the value of the claims taken up along the Kootenay river, and expressed his opinion that it would be injurious to the lands of the settlers along the river. Not alone was it necessary, replied the premier, to the development of the district to have roads made, but it was possible the Dominion and Provincial governments would give the settlers water communication, by having the Kootenay river made navigable. The premier also said he was glad the government did not conclude any arrangement with W. Grohman on the important question, of turning the Kootenay river into the Columbia river, though at the time Mr. Bailie Grohman suggested the subject to the government, he was of the opinion that the scheme would be beneficial to the Kootenay district, but now after seeing this part of the district his opinion was quite changed.

Dr. Powell has also been in Kootenay to settle the Indian reserve question. The Indians are dissatisfied at the reserve set aside for them two years ago, and have applied for another portion of land, on the east side of the upper Kootenay river. Dr. Powell is giving hearing to their demands, and will see that justice is done, both with the Indians and the settlers.

A new discovery of gold has been made at Gold Creek, about ten miles from the boundary, and it promises well.

KAMLOOPS ASSIZES.

A Light Docket—All the Business Disposed of in a Few Days:

The Fall Assizes opened in the new Court House, Kamloops, on the 4th inst, at 10 o'clock a. m., His Honor Justice Walkem, presiding. Mr. Eberts appeared for the Crown.

The Grand Jury reported true bills against Ah Sing for assault upon Mr. McMillan at Shuswap; A. G. Hamilton and J. A. Webber for breaking in and stealing at Okanagan; Allen Walker, for stealing $105 from a party while under the influence of liquor; Celina, the Indian woman for the murder of James Gillies, at Kamloops, 8th of August.

In the case of Ah Sing, on his behalf, Mr. McColl pleaded guilty. Sentenced, one year in jail at hard labor.

Hamilton having escaped from jail here, Webber was placed upon his trial. Messrs. McColl and Spinks appeared for prisoner. Found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary for two and a half years, with hard labor.

On the second day Celina was placed upon trial for the murder of Gillis. Messrs. McColl and Spinks for prisoner. Mr. Spinks made a strong defence for the accused. It was argued that whatever might be said respecting the prisoner's contradictory stories, under fright, there was nothing to prove a motive for taking the life of the unfortunate Gillis. The theory appears to be that while the prisoner and deceased were sleeping off the effects of drunkenness another party, probably one of the Indians deceased was known to be on bad terms with, stole up and struck the murderous blow. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner was discharged.

Allen Walker was placed upon trial charged with taking from the person of a drunken man $105. Evidence failed to sustain the charge and the prisoner was acquitted.

The third day was occupied in the case of J. H. Sydney, charged with adding three names to a paper to secure a license to sell spirituous liquor in Nicola. Mr. McColl for the defence. The jury acquitted the accused.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Esq., S. M.)

Geo. Jaynes and Joseph Phillips, two boys of twelve years, were charged by Henry J. Carlow with assaulting his son, Ezra Carlow, a boy of about the same age, by throwing him down and kicking him. The assault occurred about two weeks ago, but the boy Ezra is still unable to appear in court and the case was remanded for one week.

Geo. Macovich and Geo. Renma, two Greek fishermen, charged each other with assault. Macovich was fined $5.

FOOTBALL.

The first match of the season was played on Beacon Hill on Saturday last between Victoria and a team from H. M. S. Triumph, which after a few warm games of an hour's duration resulted in a win for Victoria by two goals and a try to one goal. The tries for Victoria were obtained by Holland, Ward and Drake, the two latter each placing a goal. Reeves obtained the try for the Navy and it was converted into a very good goal by Petch. For Victoria Ward, Holland, Playfair, Crease and Harvey were in fine form while for the visitors Grafton, Petch, Reeves and Golding were seen to best advantage.

Five car loads of poultry, including chickens, ducks and turkeys, the whole consignment numbering about 22,000 fowl, passed through St. Thomas a few days ago en route to Peoria, N. Y., to be fattened for the New York markets.

An experimental shipment of Canadian grapes has gone forward to England this week per steamer Vancouver of the Dominion line. It was selected by Prof. Saunders, and is consigned to the fruit department of the Colonial Exhibition.

The captures of sturgeon at Ports Talbot and Burwell have been phenomenally large this season. Tons upon tons of these cartilaginous sea fish have been shipped to Buffalo. Sturgeons weighing 75 to 115lbs. have been captured by scores.

The preparation of boneless fish, says the St. John Globe, has become an industry of no inconsiderable importance in St. John, N. B. One dealer, on the South wharf, employs 18 hands, and packs daily from three and a half to four tons. They are shipped to Montreal, Winnipeg, Kingston, Hamilton, Toronto, Prescott, Ottawa, and other places in Ontario and Quebec. Why not establish such an industry in Victoria?

ALASKA.

Result of the Recent Explorations.

Some of the Party Reach San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The Chronicle will publish to-morrow an interview with Assistant Engineer Lane, who was with Lieut. Stoney, on his exploring expedition of that portion of Alaska north of the Yukon river and of the Putnam river, which was discovered some two years ago by Stoney. Assistant Engineer Lane arrived in this city a few days ago in advance of the rest of the party, who are expected here on the U. S. steamer Bear next Friday. The exploring party left San Francisco May 3d, 1885. About December 1st Stoney and a party of sailors started for the Nowatok river, about 120 miles north of the Putnam. Soundings of the river were made as well as surveys of the region through which it flowed. Engineer Lane and several of the men then started to explore the country in the direction of St. Michaels. That point was reached after a journey of 28 days. A rough survey of the country by compass bearings was made. While Lane was away Stoney went southwest in the region of Selkirk lake and the river of the same name. He noticed several small rivers and fountain ranges. In February Stoney went eastward to headwaters of the Putnam and Nowatok rivers, and was gone forty-five days. About these headwaters he reached an immense lake, on banks of which were natives from the region of Point Barrow, the most northern point on the continent of North America. They met there to trade with the Indians of the Pugam valley. It generally takes the natives two seasons to make this trip, the severity of the winter compelling them to remain in winter quarters near the lake. Stoney's intention was to make the trip to Point Barrow from this lake, but an immense area plain would have to be traversed, which made it impossible on account of the scarcity of dogs and food. On April 2d, however, Ensign Howard and F. G. Price, a sailor, started for Point Barrow and after great hardships and privations, succeeded in reaching it on August the 16th of the present year. After a journey of 96 days, on June 1st, the breaking of the ice in the river enabled all of the party to pass down to its mouth. Many new facts of particular value to geographers has been brought to light. Prof. Baird of the Smithsonian Institute had been particularly anxious that the party should explore the Jade mountains, or Greenstone mountains and as the natives on these mountains and the greenstones they obtain from which they make hatchets and other implements. Ensign Lane and party visited the Greenstone mountain. It is 200 miles above the mouth of the Putnam river and about 300 feet high. Greenstone, as it is called, is more correctly speaking a serpentine and is found in layers of considerable thickness. The Esquimaux Indians of that region are polygamous. No valuable minerals were discovered. Coal was found in abundance on Putnam river and of good quality. Granite exists in large quantities and asbestos was found. Neither gold nor silver was found, and as the Indians had none in their possession and never mentioned them the explorers came to the conclusion that it was doubtful whether they exist in large quantities in that part of Alaska. Putnam river is about 400 miles long, half a mile wide, and navagable for a distance of 350 miles, when rapids are encountered. It drains a large area of Putnam valley, which is 400 miles wide. The volume of water that flows down in the immense river is surrounded by a range of mountains about 3,000 feet high, the highest peak of which is 4,000 feet high. There is a dense growth of spruce and birch wood along the banks. This stream is several hundred miles above the Yukon river and flows east and west, and empties into Katzebue Sound. Nowatok river is 120 miles north of the Putnam, separated from it by a range of mountains. It is shallow and rocky and flows east and west. There is very little vegetation along its banks. It is about 400 miles long and empties into Katzeone sound. South of the Putnam about three miles is Selewik lake, twenty miles in diameter and very deep. Selewik river is 200 miles long and flows east and west. It is divided into two branches and flows into a lake north of Nowatok river in a wide desert plain, extending for 100 miles and intersected with many large and small streams. It extends clear to the Arctic ocean. The soil is very poor and never thaws but to a depth of a few inches, and aside from possible deposits of gold and silver or the fur trade the country is not of any practical value to white men. Lieutenant Lane regards the report of Schwatka's discovery of the so-called Jones river as highly probable, for the country is so little known and there are so many rivers that it is not hard to discover a new stream in an extended trip through the territory.

THE ANCHORIA SAFE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—A dispatch this afternoon from St. Johns, N. F., states the steamer Anchoria is seven miles off this shore with her shaft broken. A steamer will leave St. Johns in the morning to render her assistance. The news was brought in by a boat which left the steamer on Friday and arrived this afternoon. The Miranda is the name of the steamer to be dispatched to the Anchoria's assistance. It is probable that further news will be received by an early hour to-morrow morning. The Anchoria's life boat, which arrived here this afternoon, was under command of the first officer. The Anchoria's main shaft is broken and she lies under canvas about 70 miles off Cape Spear, bearing east southeast. Passengers and crew were all well.

THE ANCHORIA ARRIVES.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Oct. 11.—The Anchoria arrived here in tow. Passengers and crew are all well.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—A dispatch from St. Johns was received by Henderson Bros., agents of the Anchor line this morning. It stated the steamer Anchoria arrived in that port at 3 o'clock this morning, passengers well. The Miranda that left St. Johns yesterday in search of the vessel had missed her and the overdue steamer sailed to within three miles of port, when she was towed in by a harbor tug.

Hiram Walker & Sons harvested about fifty acres of tobacco on their farm in East Sandwich this season.

NEWS BY CABLE.

THE VIENNA PLOT.

VIENNA, Oct. 10.—The Vienna police have furnished the press with ad account of the recently discovered anarchist plot to burn Vienna. Although many details are obviously suppressed, the plot is shown to have surpassed in extent and diabolical ingenuity any dynamite plot heretofore concocted. Seventeen conspirators have been arrested. An examination of the prisoners shows the plot was hatched in and directed from America and London, and was to be carried out by Vienna anarchists, who recently returned from America. The plot was cleverly organized. The conspirators were divided into several groups, one of which was to set fire to the town, another was to take charge of the dynamite measures, and others to forge the necessary official documents and coin the money for expenses. A party was detailed to set fire to Uetermeidling, Heitzendorff, Meidlong, and Favoriten. The Police got wind of the plot and watched it until it was almost perfected. An anarchist of Prague gave the first information concerning the conspiracy to the authorities and the plotters were mostly Czechs and Germans. They held their meeting in a tavern at Ponzing, where the operators were instructed in the use and manufacture of bombs. The seizure included numerous daggers and bombs of dynamite, five bottles for firing buildings, printing and implements, and a variety of disguises, all most ingenious. Another plan to gain money was by the means of forged documents to frighten old ladies at whose houses the plotters would make domicillary visits, under a pretense of searching for counterfeit money. A recent fire in a private house was the result of an experiment with fire bottles.

IRISH AFFAIRS.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Daily News says it is the intention of the government after promising a Home Rule bill, to take up the procedure measure as the first business of the session. The government have intimated this to Lord Hartington and Mr. Chamberlain, but nothing definite has been arranged. Although the government hope to carry a Home Rule measure, a majority will prefer to secure the right of Cloture first. It is likely the Parnellites will object to the government's programme, and insist that Irish affairs be the first business.

MORE TROUBLE IN SOFIA.

SOFIA, Oct. 11.—The government attach but little importance to the action of Niklonderuff, Russian agent in suspending diplomatic relations. On Saturday a crowd hooted at a number of peasants assembled in the garden of the Russian consulate. The peasants replied by throwing blocks of wood and stones. The crowd retaliated whereupon Mantengres and Cavasses in the garden of the consulate fired upon the mob. Fifteen revolver bullets struck the walls of the British and German consulates. The peasents subsequently left the consulate.

THE REGATTA.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—In the consolation race at the Hendoy rowing regatta to-day the first heat was won by Teemer who beat Perkins. In the second heat East beat Hamm. The final heat in the sculling handicap was won by Bubear, who easily defeated his opponent Ten Eyck of the U. S.

A STANDING MENACE.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The St. James' Gazette says enthusiastic socialists declare that thousands of men regularly drill in London and they boast that they are able to put one thousand armed men into the streets.

OIL IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Oct. 11.—A petroleum spring has been discovered under a house that was being repaired. A quantity of oil suddenly burst forth; the spring affords a good supply of oil.

BRITISH MINISTER.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 11.—The Sultan has accepted Sir Wm. White as British Minister to Turkey.

BULGARIAN ELECTIONS.

SOFIA, Oct. 11.—In the elections for members of the Sobranje, to elect a successor to Prince Alexander, all the government candidates have been successful. M. Karaveloff, pro-Russian, received but 50 votes out of the 1500 cast in his district.

PORT MOODY EXCURSIONISTS.

A number of people took advantage of the Sunday excursion rates made by the C. P. N. Co. between this city and Vancouver, and Port Moody yesterday. The Louise had as many passengers as she had accommodation for, most of whom made the trip for the purpose of seeing the terminal city, returning here in the evening. The C. P. N. Co. have made a move in the right direction.

FREIGHT RATES.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11.—A special from Vicksburg to the Picayune says: The General Freight Agent of the Queen & Crescent Railroad system, has orders to abandon all tariff freight rates fixed by the Mississippi Railroad Commission, which has been in force for the last three months, and to resume former rates, as fixed by the company. It is supposed that this order is justified by the order of Judge Hill, U. S. Court of Mississippi, in the case of the Vicksburg & Meridan Railroad, which road is in the hands of a receiver.

INDIAN CASHMERES.

The favorite material for AUTUMN and WINTER DRESSES. Our third shipment of this justly popular fabric, consisting of 15 pieces, in the most seasonable shades, just received. WM. WILSON & Co., City House.

ANOTHER STRIKE.

Chinese miners, apparently, have made a strike of some kind on Clayoquot sound, but as is usually the case they say nothing about it to white men. The Chinese are leaving Alberni for the new diggings.

ANOTHER CORRECTION.

According to the award of the judges and the Secretary's book, Mrs. R. Maynard and Mr. O. C. Hastings were both awarded first prizes, and their exhibits being considered equal. Our report was correct as first published.

BERDAN AND HIS SHARPSHOOTERS.

Reviewing the Work of the Famous Corps of Riflemen at Gettysburg.

I saw that this was a movement to flank us under cover of the wood, and the enemy was already in front of our extreme left. I therefore determined to attack, violently too, in hopes of throwing the column into confusion and thus to gain time for a change of direction of the corps on our left. I rode back about 100 yards and gave the order: "Follow me; advance firing; double quick, march!" No sooner was the order given than you responded, to a man. At the same time the enemy opened fire upon us. Never were cartridge boxes and pistols emptied quicker or with more effect. We not only doubled up the column but threw it into confusion. The enemy has confessed to have had several hundred killed or wounded by this attack, but the main point gained was the time necessary to put the Third and Fourth corps into position to receive the enemy from the south instead of the west, which saved the army from a violent attack on the flank and perhaps the rear, the result of which would have been very disastrous.

When this had been accomplished I retired what was left of the command, and I regret to say that about one-half were still on the field, killed or wounded. We halted at the rear of the gallant Third corps, when I gave orders for those who were fit for duty to step to the front. Every man stepped forward, some with bandages on their arms, others on their legs or heads, saturated with blood. Then began the old story of reorganization—making captains of sergeants and lieutenants of corporals. I heard one wounded man say to his comrade: "That hill" (referring to the Little Round Top) "is our place." I remarked: "Yes, my man, you are right, and you will be taken there in a few moments." Soon after the men were put in that position the enemy advanced in such great numbers up the gorge from the south, as originally intended by him, that it was difficult to keep supplied with ammunition. So I went around taking cartridges from the boxes of the dead men and giving them to those who were firing. I was taking some cartridges from a man whom I saw fall, when he looked up, recognized me, and said: "Colonel, give me one more shot."

I put the cartridge in the gun, cocked it, and partly held him up while he fired. I was so impressed with the cool courage and determination of the man that I wished to save him for an officer, so I told his comrade to take him to the rear. When he lifted the wounded man up he turned to me and said in an undertone, "This man cannot live." I told him to make the trial, and he carried the wounded man off. In a few moments I came along and gave this second man some cartridges, and in the act of his taking them I recognized him. He did not boast to me of his having returned, but when I spoke to him of it he said, "Yes, he is dead," took the cartridges and went on firing as deliberately as though not only his own life but the whole Union depended upon his special aim with the rifle. In a few minutes he, too, was mortally wounded.—Gen. Berdan's Gettysburg Address.

Serenade of the Spanish Lover.

But on the whole the Spanish student and the serenader was, at the period of my visit, conspicuous by his absence. In Barcelona I heard a great deal of street music of a peculiar kind, but not elsewhere. During my wanderings at night about Cordova I occasionally, but not often, saw the cloaked cavalier before the grated window of his fair one if it was at the first story, or under it if the forbidden chamber were in the second. This scarcity of midnight trysts with a cruel wall between might have been an accident of the season, for if we are to believe the poet, it is not in autumn that a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. There is something depressing about the first chill winds that sweep down from lofty mountain chains upon valleys of the rose and plains of almost eternal summer, and the Spanish lover, though of a somewhat fiery passion, is not above their influence. None of those that I saw paid the slightest attention to the approaching footfall of the stranger, nor did the wearer of the white drapery, seen in a ghostly way in the inner recess of the window, endeavor to withdraw from foreign observation.

In one instance the loving intercourse was carried on under difficulties. The window was far above the wall, but by mounting on a small box and reaching up his arm to its full height the cavalier was able to touch the end of the finger of his charmer, who reached her white arm down as far as possible. To the ordinary observer this would seem a very fatiguing and unsatisfactory style of lovemaking, but this midnight pair evidently did not tire of it, for having passed the spot before midnight and made an extended tour, I returned by the same place and found the lovers still fondly and painfully touching the tips of each other's fingers.—Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

He Was Entirely too Argumentative.

"Say, Gregg, I've had my salary raised."

"Stockton, how did you manage it?"

"By argument. He was giving you $30 a week and myself but $30. I convinced him of the injustice, and he's going to pay me $5 more. That was liberal, wasn't it? It equalizes things, you see."

"Yes, Stockton, and that's precisely what I object to. I wish you had been less argumentative. He took $5 a week off my salary in order to add it to yours."—Philadelphia Call.

ARROGANT AND BROW BEATING.

It would be interesting observes a contemporary, to hear the believers in the progress of international laws discourse upon the recent behavior of Russia in the Bulgarian affairs. We should have to go back some centuries in search of precedents for the brazen orders given to General KAULBARS, the Czar's new agent at Sophia, and then we could only find them in the Muscovite diplomacy of IVAN the Terrible. What civilization may expect, should Russia ever reach, by way of Stamboul and Calcutta, her goal of universal empire, may be guessed from the brutal contempt for treaties, for popular rights and public opinion shown on a small scale in Bulgaria from the moment that the cubs of Muscovy venture to unsheath their claws. We have had no more depressing sign of the demoralization of the European mind and conscience resulting from the monstrous incubus of conscripted armies than the seeming impunity with which KAULBARS forbids an ostensibly free people to vindicate their laws by chastising the adductors of their elected ruler. An approach to such insolence on the part of an envoy of CATHERINE II. of ALEXANDER I., or of NICHOLAS would have set Europe in a blaze. It is not merely that the least squeamish of veteran diplomatists should feel shocked by a proceeding which leaves the Czar in the position of an accessory after the fact in the kidnapping of a fellow sovereign. The mere presence of Gen. KAULBARS at Sophia is an impertinence to other European States, and his so-called ultimatum amounts to a defiant declaration that neither the Bulgarian people nor any of the powers represented in the Berlin Congress have any rights which Russia's CESAR is bound to respect. This point should be distinctly recognized, for it forms the pivot of the interpellations made on the Bulgarian incident during the present week in the Hungarian Diet. Amid the general torpor of European feeling on the subject the Magyars alone seem to perceive that the strange proceedings at Sophia portend a speedy Muscovite absorption of two principalities and a close approach of Russia's outposts to the walls of Constantinople. They know that in the end the HAPSBURG power must fight for its existence against the Czar, and they cannot tolerate the folly of deferring an inevitable contest until the Danubian fortresses and the Balkan passes are in their opponents hands. In ALEXANDER of Battenberg, who, whatever his faults may be, did manage to elicit the ardent devotion of his army and his people, the Magyars behold a "heaven-sent" coadjutor of the HAPSBURGS in creating an insuperable bar to Muscovite extension in a strong South-Slavic league. They would have had Austro-Hungary pledged to sustain him at Sophia, and they will not without angry expostulation see his second removal followed by a high-handed attempt to stamp out the anti-Russian party in Bulgaria. If it be pretended that the actual interregnum at Sophia justifies the temporary presence of a Russian supervisor, the Magyars will invite Premier TISZA to explain why it is that Austrian interests do not also need a caretaker.

Russia has not a jot more right to send Gen. KAULBARS with an ultimatum to Sophia than any other of the co-signatory powers has to despatch thither an envoy with precisely opposite injunctions. No special privilege of protection or of patronage belongs to Russia. The rights and obligations with relation to Bulgaria of every State participating in the Berlin Congress were defined in the treaty, and they are exactly equal. If Russia believed her interests exposed to special damage at the hands of Prince ALEXANDER, she should have laid her grievance before a conference, the tribunal provided by the treaty itself. She preferred to be herself judge, jury, and executioner, and during the abduction plot, which she instigated, a failure, she now insists upon the condonation of its authors. But, obviously, if the kidnappers are to go unpunished, Russia can only hold Bulgaria by main force. Otherwise the liberty or life of the Duke of OLDENBURG, or any other pro-Russian occupant of the Bulgarian throne, would be quite as insecure as his predecessors. The HAPSBURG government has seemingly thrown away the best card in its hand by permitting the second and voluntary abdication of Prince ALEXANDER. A word from Vienna would have kept him at Sophia. But the Magyars evidently think that it is not even yet too late—provided such a man as ANDRASSY would resume KALNOKY'S place—to bring the Cossack despot to his senses, and teach him that he lives, not in the days of IVAN II., but in the nineteenth century.

THE BARKERVILLE SCHOOL AFFAIR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—On returning from a visit to the country my attention has been called to a letter which appeared in the Colonist, signed Jonathan Nutt. As I leave the province in a few hours, I trust Mr. Nutt will be satisfied with a brief reply. Am pleased to note, Mr. Nutt, that you have the symptoms of regaining strength, for from what I know of you personally, and can learn by enquiry, I fear you are not the very good, kind old man, loved by all the town, as the old nursery rhyme has it. You wish to convey the idea that I was dismissed by the trustees of Barkerville for "exhibiting pictures;" improper ones I suppose. Now, Mr. Nutt, as far as I know there was only one picture. Doubtless this was an unintentional error, an additional quiver of a nerveless hand. Yet mark the vast difference in meaning conveyed. Be careful, Mr. Nutt, how you err, as you may never have time to undertake in your corrections. One picture only found not under "his door" but in the school-room which the trustees never saw or heard of—unless, (and this I don't believe) they were accomplices of the vile wretch who placed it there—until some weeks after I received notice that "the scool boord don't wornt to re-engarge you." This picture, which I have still, does not reflect upon the character of any young lady, nor as far as I know, does any young lady think so. When I feared that the same abandoned man devised the picture, and was your chief counsellor, and not till then, I showed the picture to trustee Hagaman, the young lady's father, who seemed at once to recognize the handiwork and declared had he seen it sooner, he would never have moved against me, and that he believed it to be part of a foul conspiracy. He knew I had showed it to no other, and further, although urgently solicited refused to show it to his wife, the young lady's mother, for fear it might come to his daughter's knowledge and cause her unnecessary pain. And farther, that it was at her father's request, and contrary to my better judgment, that it was shown to you, Mr. J. Nutt, a school trustee and a Justice of the Peace, and to Mr. Stone, an ex-trustee, J.P., and Sunday School Superintendent, and if you have blabbed it over the country, and published it, although I may regret your ill-advised course, I cannot assume the blame. I believe the chairman of the public meeting signed his report, and I believe it was correct. I fear, Mr. Nutt, your hearsay evidence cannot be accepted. Although legally notified to call a meeting you refused; so, what would or might have happened had you done so, I think no other than yourself has ever presumed to say. Has the doctor come out of his boots since? He stated that it was a packed meeting, packed with my friends; well, whose funeral was that? Your fellow-trustees would in their ignorance have been krnaled for the occasion had not some friend posted them that it was not a criminal offence or actionable to remain away. No, the enemy, although strongly invited, yea, almost compelled to come, slunk to their dens.

To W. S. Bannerman, Esq.,—Dear Sir, We desire to express you our appreciation of the very satisfactory manner in which the school children acquitted themselves at the entertainment given last evening, which showed not only great painstaking on your part, but also evinced that perfect accord between teacher and scholars, so essential to success in the schoolroom. We trust it may be our frequent pleasure to witness similar entertainments by the Barkerville school children under your direction. Most respectfully yours, T. Stone, Hugh Watt, Jno. Bowron, John Stevenson, J.B. Nason, John Hanson, Henry Brown, Elizabeth Kelly, John Munroe, S. A. Rogers, Arch. Munroe, John Murray, Joseph Mason, Charles House, Joseph Denny, Gomer Johns, Samuel I. Lincock. Barkerville, Nov. 20th, 1884.

The above presented a few months after my arrival in Barkerville, speaks for itself. Your name is not on the list, I suppose no one noticed your presence or mourned your absence—"Cavalier" is a new role for Jonathan Nutt—Battling for young ladies! Indeed I don't remember that I ever saw a child converse with you. Unwholesome, overhealth breath wilts flowers, Parents, friends, strangers, for two long years encouraged us in our work, by frequent visits, kind words and otherwise. This man Watt, who writes, spent during that time less than two hours in the school room. Two weeks after receiving the notice of dismissal, already referred to, the following petition was handed to your secretary.

To the Trustees of Barkerville School. Gentlemen:—We the undersinged heads of families, living in the school district of Barkerville and sending our children to said school, feel it our duty at this time to express our full confidence in the ability and integrity of the teacher, Mr. Bannerman, and our unqualified approval of the course pursued by him during the time he has been among us, and are anxious that he be retained for the coming school year. By giving this your prompt attention you will oblige those most interested. Signed, Henry Brown, Catharine Brown, Ettie Houser, Andrew Kelly, Charles House, Charles O'Neil. Barkerville, July 5th, 1886."

Of the three remaining families, Mr. Brown, I understand, and you admits as much, stated explicitly that he had no objection to any part of the foregoing petition, but as the government agent refused, or principals, to sign the petition. From Mr. and Mrs. Mason I received every support and encouragement until the last hour of the school. I believe Mr. Sincock was never asked; he was usually out of town and I think never entered the schoolroom. As far as I know he was well satisfied with the school and teacher. Now, Mr. Nutt, how cranky your figures are, how did you manage to get them topsy turvy. Something akin to your year of grace, 1889. While it purifies and ennobles some natures, how perverse it renders others to find themselves in the scrape of being old, alive and poor.

"S. D. FOOT, Esq., Supt. Education, etc. We the undersigned trustees of the Barkerville public school take pleasure in testifying to the unqualified success of W. S. Bannerman as a public school teacher, and are desirous that he should remain in charge of the Barkerville public school." Signed, John Houser, Christian Hagemann." June 26th, 1886.

Mr. Nutt was not in Barkerville when the above was signed. Possibly I was "obnoxious" to you, Mr. Nutt, and also to the creature in human shape that wrote his name in his own vileness on the school door, and to the designer of the indecent picture, and to him who, to injure me, did not hesitate to endeavor to dishonor a happy home, and to those of that ilk—parasites in Barkerville—the spread of the light is ever "obnoxious" to darkness. Now, in conclusion, Mr. Nutt, if you have any further letters on this subject will you kindly send me them for revision. Address, University College, Toronto. Enclose at the same time Dr. Watt's copy. I suppose the doctor with all the morbid curiosity of inexperienced youth will protract his post mortem of the school difficulty into the coming years. I understood the sweet fragrance of the last—the Sterling decision post mortem—still lingers among the hills and dells of Cariboo. What a favored people! How greatly honored and deeply indebted the Victoria press must be for your frequent suggestions as to how a respectable newspaper should be run. Has the doctor been there and learned by sad experience?

THE TRADE IN HAIR.

PREPARING HORSE, OX AND HOG HAIR FOR UPHOLSTERING.

Sorting the Raw Material—Sent to the Dye Room—Mixing—The Process of "Curling"—Manufacture of Brushes and Fishing Lines.

The trade in hair is of no inconsiderable magnitude. Its length, strength and elasticity renders it useful for many purposes, varying according to its nature and origin. Since the beginning of the present century, hair, as distinguished from wool, has been largely manufactured. The chief sources of supply of this class of fiber are the group of animals represented by the alpaca, the caprine tribe, the camel, the horse, the ox and the hog. But it is only necessary to notice those of the horse, ox and the hog, which are manufactured in Brooklyn, N. Y. The bulk of hair obtained from these sources is used for upholstery purposes, being manufactured into curled hair for stuffing or hair cloth for seating.

The raw material is divided into several qualities, according to the purpose for which it is destined. The best is that denominated "hard hair," chiefly obtained from ostlers and stablemen, being tail hair procured in combing. That similarly got from the mane is of a different quality, being termed "soft." Knacker's hair, or that obtained from dead animals, is much inferior, "dead" hard hair not being more than equal to "live" soft hair. The depreciation which hair undergoes on the death of an animal is such that when worn out horses are sent to be slaughtered the knacker always cuts off the mane and tail previous to the operation.

FOR UPHOLSTERY PURPOSES.

Horse hair makes by far the best curled hair, but is not the only sort employed. Cow and hog hair constitute a large portion of that which is manufactured into the curled article for upholstery purposes. These are chiefly procured from home sources. Hogs which have high feeding do not yield hair either in quantity or quality sufficient to render its collection worth the cost. That yielded by lean animals is always the strongest and most elastic.

The raw material, having been supplied to the workers, is first separated into long and short hair, the former being carefully reserved for the manufacture of hair seating, fishing lines, brushes, etc., and the latter for curling or stuffing. The sorting is next repeated for the purpose of separating the colors. White hair is esteemed the most valuable, being used for special purposes and the supply being small. A third time this process takes place, this last being for assortment in two qualities. This is very important and requires nice discrimination and sensitiveness of touch in the sorter, in order to perform the process efficiently. Each quality of hair is next subjected to thorough washing in cold water to remove dirt, dust, etc. It is then sent to the dye room and immersed for several hours in a dye bath chiefly composed of a decoction of logwood. When removed it is of a dull black color. Further washing and cleansing then take place, the hair being put into large vats containing agitators, through which flows a stream of hot water. This treatment removes the superfluous dye and further purifies the hair.

Following the short hair, we find that the next process is mixing—making a blend of certain proportions of horse, cow and pig hair, according to the quality of the article intended to be produced. When the blends have been properly laid down, the material is passed through a series of "willows," by which the different sorts are thoroughly incorporated, becoming homogenous as far as mechanical admixture can produce such a state.

IN THE "CURLING" ROOM.

After passing through the third of these machines it is beaten and screened to clear away the dust created by this treatment, and is then ready for the curling process. "Curling" is carried on in a separate room called the curling room. The curlers spin the hair into ropes or strands by the aid of a machine similar to that employed in rope spinning. The rope is further twisted in a second operation, by which means it is reduced to half its first length. By a third process it is turned until it assumes a convolute form, when it is secured as a coil. These processes give to the hair its peculiar curl, which fits it for the purpose to which it is applied—stuffing for the seats of chairs, sofas, etc. It requires to be fixed in this condition, which is accomplished by the following treatment: The coils are immersed in cold water and allowed to stand for several hours. On removal from this they are placed in specially constructed ovens, which are treated to a very high temperature. After subjection to this heat for a sufficient time the curl is permanently fixed, and the germs of all parasitic life are destroyed. When the process of baking is finished the hair has become a marketable article and is sold either in form of hard curl as removed from the ovens or soft curl in which it is partly untwisted and the filaments are separated ready for use.

The long hair is applied to the manufacture of brushes and fishing lines, chiefly to that of hair cloth for upholstery purposes. After having been thoroughly cleansed, as stated before, it is combed by drawing the bunches through fixed combs, like flax hackles, which work is done by boys. It is next drawn into different lengths and thicknesses, which is an important and tedious operation, requiring both delicacy of touch and quickness of eye. These lengths range from fourteen inches to thirty-five inches. This work is performed by hand, though attempts have recently been made to accomplish the drawing automatically. Black hair is subjected to further treatment, in order to obtain a full, glossy blackness. White is bleached, in order to diminish the yellowish tint, which is its natural hue, but this is never perfectly removed.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Advantage of Color Blindness.

It might surprise you to know that occasionally total color blindness has proven a decided advantage. All colors appearing to such an one as shades of gray, or black or white. An engraver thus affected would possess a keener ability to discern fine lines. A clerk in a mourning goods department of a large dry goods store received extra compensation for his acute eye for shades when it was found to depend on total color blindness. Such cases are exceptional as can be imagined when railroad men are discharged for inability to distinguish a red from a green lantern. Postoffice clerks have run short in their cash accounts through selling stamps of the wrong denomination, the differently colored sheets getting into the wrong drawers.—Lithographer and Printer.

Views of the City.

A standard business in every large city now is the sale of photographic albums of the principal buildings, parks and public resorts of the city. For many years this business was confined to European cities. Gradually the album came in vogue in New York, and Washington city; but now the perfection to which photo-lithographs have been reduced makes their publication a matter of such slight cost, that every city has its publications of views, and few travelers pass through a city of any note without possessing themselves of one of these cheap and interesting souvenirs of the visit. Formerly such an album of St. Louis views as now sells for 50 cents would have been cheap at $5.—"G. C." in Globe-Democrat.

The first female employed by the government was Miss Jennie Douglass, appointed to the treasury department by Spinner in 1862.

Character in Clothes.

Students of human nature have found exponents of character in the way a man wears his hair, curls his mustache, ties his cravat, buttons his coat, bags his trousers at the knees, and wears off the sides of his shoes, and to some of these lovers of the curious there is little about a man, his features, form, and clothes, his voice, manner, and gait, that does not stand out as an exponent of some peculiar phase of his character.

The prenologist no longer has a monopoly in character reading. The hatter has entered the lists agasnt him and will read a man's character by the outline showing the shape of the head, and the shoemaker comes next to tell what kind of a man is his patron by the curve of the instep, the knots and bunions, or by the manner in which the soles of old shoes are worn. The tailor, the furnisher, and clothes-cleaner also have their peculiar methods of reading character, and the mind reader has but little advantage over all these when they combine to tell a man what he is and what he thinks. The detective may have studied character all his life, and he will never discover traits which are as an open book to any one of these people.—Inter Ocean.

He Proposes to Lend Shotguns.

A sanguine young man in New York has started what seems to be a new line of business. He has a lot of shot guns, single and double barreled, that he proposes to lend, for a consideration, by the day, week, month, or year. He reasons that in a population so large as that of New York there must be a great many people who would like to go hunting if they only had guns. But they cannot afford to make permanent investments in the purchase of guns, so he steps in "to supply a long-felt want." As yet no guns have been lent by the young man, but he expects to have many persons calling around in the Autumn to pay $1 and $2 a day, or from $3 to $5 a month, for the loan of guns worth from $12 to $30 each.—Chicago Herald

Dr. LeDuc's Periodical Pills.

These Pills are compounded from the purest drugs, from those only which are known to act upon the Generative Organs in Females. It is a well known fact that a very large proportion of the ills to which Females are liable, are the direct result of Suppressed or Disordered Menstruation, and it is necessary therefore that a safe and reliable remedy for the cure of these diseases be placed within the reach of every one. Dr. Le Duc's Pills are the oldest, most generally used, and most reliable remedy for the cure of Suppressed Menstruation, and other Uterine diseases, and wherever they have been introduced have driven every other remedy out of the market. They were first introduced into Paris, France, by Dr. LeDuc in 1839, and have so gained the confidence of the public that they have for years been the standing remedy in every household. DR. VANMONCISCAR,

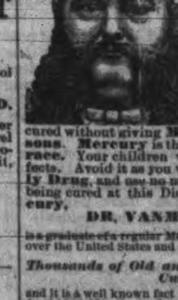
THE WELL-KNOWN

SPECIALIST,

Proprietor & Consulting Physician of the Only Private Dispensary on the Pacific Coast, now permanently located at:
132, 134, Third Street, Portland, Or.



DR. VANMONCISCAR has made the treatment of Private Diseases of Men a special study and practice for many years. Over 4000 cases treated yearly. Recent cases of private diseases cured in a short time. Ulcers, Humors and Blotches on Face or Body cured without giving Mercury or other Poisons. Mercury is the curse of the human race. Your children will suffer from its effects. Avoid it as you would avoid any deadly Drug, and use no more. These diseases are being cured at this Dispensary without Mercury.

DR. VANMONCISCAR

is a graduate of a regular Medical College, is well known over the United States and Canada by and it is a well known fact that for years he has confined himself to the study and treatment of Sexual and Chronic Diseases, thus giving him advantages few possess. Dr. Vanmonciscar addresses himself particularly to those who have already tried various physicians and remedies from whom they have received no benefits, and who, in fact, have done them more harm than good. Medicine, like all other sciences, is progressive, and every year shows proof of its advances. By a combination of remedies of great curative power, Dr. Vanmonciscar has so arranged his treatment that it will afford not only immediate relief, but permanent cures.

YOUNG MEN who are suffering from the effects of youthful indiscretions showing some of the following symptoms: Nervious and Physical Debility, Impotency (Incapacity) Lost Manhood, Abuses of the system, Exhausted Vitality, Confusion of Ideas, Dull and Loss of Brilliancy to the Eye, Aversion to Society, Despondency, Pimples on the Face, Loss of Energy, and Frequency of Urinating. You may be in the first stages, but remember you are fast approaching the last. Do not let false pride and sham modesty deter you from attending to your ailments. Many a bright and naturally gifted young man, endowed with genius, has permitted his case to run on and on, until remorse racked his intellect, and finally death claimed its victim. Remember that "Procrastination is the thief of time." So lay aside your pride, and consult one who thoroughly understands your ailment, and who will know your case, and find permanent relief for an ailment that has made day a drudgery and night hideous. Thousands upon thousands of men in good standing in the social world, of prominence in the world are to-day suffering from the fruits of their doings, the seeds of which were sown during moments of thoughtlessness. Young man turn and gaze upon thy companion, or seek the mirror for proof to substantiate this fact. Oh! could he control the arm of Fate, or had he his life to live again, then I could not appeal to you more sincerely. Let your mind wander back to the much cherished counsels of a loving father, and remember what you are to-day. Though you may for the present fill your station in society, the time is as inevitable as fate when your brilliancy will, like a flash, depart, leaving you a stranded wreck—desolate, forgotten and lost; so embrace the opportunity and enjoy life and happiness longer. If you claim to be a man, act your part manly. Do not console yourself with the thought that Nature will help itself, for in doing so you not only fan the flame, but wreck Nature and yourself. Remember, "Large oaks from little acorns grow;" "Little ills germinate fatal diseases."

Middle-aged Men,

married or single, who are prematurely old as a result of excesses or youthful follies, and who are troubled by too frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and finding a deposit of rosy sediment in the urine, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will first be of a thin or milkish hue, and again changing to a dark or torpid appearance, causing nervous debility and loss of Vitality. Remember, this is the second stage of Seminal Weakness. In all such cases a perfect cure is guranteed, and a radical restoration of the Genito-Urinary Organs. All interviews and letters are sacredly confidential. Medicines packed so as not excite curiosity, and sent by express, if full description of case is given; but one personal interview in all cases preferred. Patients treated by case or monthly. Call early and avoid crowding. Office hours: 9 A. M. to 8 P. M.; Sundays, 10 A. M. to 1 P. M.

THE WIRES.

New Tariff Rates of the Canadian Pacific Telegraph Service.

The Victoria telegraph office opens now for business at 8 o'clock, a. m. This change took place on the day the transfer took place. Other important changes have likewise been made. The system of the company has been divided into nine districts. Section 1 embraces Ontario and Quebec, west to and including North Bay, Ontario; 2, Lake Superior District; 3, Sault Ste. Marie District; 4, Thunder Bay District; 5, Manitoba; 6, Assiniboia East; 7, Assiniboia West; 8, Alberta; 9, Mountain District; 10, Pacific District. In section 10, embracing all offices between Ashcroft and Victoria, the local rate for ten words is 10 cents, and for each additional word 2 cents. Heretofore the rate was 50 cents. Victoria to Cache Creek, Clinton, and Bridge Creek the rate for 10 words is 50 cents; and 3 cents for each additional word. The old rate was 75 cents. Victoria to Soda Creek and Quesnelle the rate for 10 words is 75 cents; and 4 cents for each additional word. The former rate was $1. To Stanley and Barkerville the rate of $1 has been retained as well as the 5 cent rate for each additional word over ten. Victoria to all offices in Ontario and Quebec a scale of $1.50 for ten words has been adopted, and 8 cents for each additional word. Former rate was $1.50. To New Brunswick and Nova Scotia an increase of 5 cents has been made for ten words, the rate now charged being $1.55 and 10 cents for each additional word. Victoria to Prince Edward Island for ten words the rate is $1.75 and 12 cents for each additional word. The former rate was $2.

For night rates a considerable reduction has been made. To Ontario and Quebec the rate is 80 cents for ten words and 5 cents for each additional word. To New Brunswick and Nova Scotia for ten words the rate is $1.15 and 8 cents for each additional word.

The cable rates to Great Britain, Ireland and France 25 cents per word, is an increase of 1 cent per word on former rates.

In the east where the service of the C. P. R. has been tested it is meeting with great success and receiving much praise for the despatch and promptness with which it attended to business.

THE COUPON ENDOWMENT BOND.

This kind of policy—issued alone by the Citizen's Insurance Company of Canada—is the most desirable form of life insurance ever offered to the mercantile class. Merchants and others often require the temporary advance of money, and without obligations to anyone this bond affords the means of getting an amount without any sacrifice whatever. Many objections are made to Endowment Policies that they convey no tangible value to the owner except through the company which issues them, and then only by dealing with the head office, which, situated in a distant or foreign city, entails a correspondence oftentimes so irksome and procrastinated, that before a final answer is obtained the pressing necessity has required you to look elsewhere for the loan wanted. To meet this objection the Citizens Insurance Company of Canada has invented a new form of policy, by which an endowment insurance is made a definite contract for each year of its existence, and has a declared money value from its start, and is made negotiable anywhere! The policy is issued in the form of an extraordinary money bond with coupon attached. Each coupon is (if wanted) payable at the end of any year after the second payment of premium has been made. They are payable by the Company to bearer, upon presentation of the bond with coupon and last renewal receipt paid, any bank or money lender would advance the sum less an ordinary collecting fee. Or a loan could be effected upon the security of the bond without reference to the Company, by merely depositing the bond and last renewal receipt as collateral security. Not a single condition, ordinarily attached to Life Policies, encumbers this bond, so that once issued it is absolutely non-forfeitable for any cause whatever, so long as the renewal premiums are paid. It meets all the advantages of a ready bank account, with the addition that in event of death of the insured, the face of the bond is payable to the holder of it, or to the registered transferee at the head office of the Company. In addition to the sums mentioned in the coupons the bond bears profits payable to the Assured or registered transferee at the end of the period. These profits have been tontined, giving additional advantages to those parties renewing the bond to maturity. The face of the bond and tontine profits are payable to the Assured or registered transferee upon its surrender to the Company at end of the endowment term of 15, 20, 25 or 30 years. Rates and all explanation given on application at the office of the general agents of the Company for the Pacific Coast, M. M. Hart, Imrie and Dansereau, Victoria Theatre Block, corner View and Douglas streets. See advertisement in another column. *

SIEWERD'S DRAMATIC COMPANY.

A large audience greeted Siewerd's Dramatic Company at the Victoria on Saturday evening. Humpty Dumpty was well performed with E. J. Mackley as clown and Jennie Mackley as Columbine. Walter Deaby and Annie Linnetta performed a number of daring feats on the double trapeze, and were enthusiastically applauded. Billy Gilbert and Joe Moran in their song and dance presentations were well received. The performance concluded with a drama in three acts entitled "A Blacksmith's Vow" which was presented in a very creditable manner.

GOOD!

William Fenwick, sworn, before Judge Galt, Toronto, 1882: Jas. Bethune, Q. C., for plaintiffs:—I live at Enterprise, 20 miles back of Napanee, Ont., I am a miller; I had occasion to use the Starr Kidney Pad. It was used for a lame back; that was in the year 1880, I think. I had been suffering more or less with it at certain times for five years; not suffering all the time. I had doctored myself more or less all the time. At the time I got the pad I was in bed and could not get up. Mr. Alsworth, the druggist of Tamouth, Ont., asked me to use the pad. He said to try it; I did try it, and I hadn't it on two hours until I got relief. I had pain in the back, and my water was high colored and bad; the pad did not trouble me in bed at night; I felt better after having the pad on two hours; I worked with it on for three or four days; then I threw it off; I felt all right, and went to work again. I had no heavy lifting then at first for a couple of days; but on the third day I gave my back a little wrench, and I went back to the house and put the pad on, and I got relief in half an hour. I then wore it for six weeks. Sometimes yet I have twinges of pain, but I have not been laid up. I used to be before that if I stooped down I could not pick up. I have had none of that feeling since. I had taken no medicine while using the pad. Q.—To what do you attribute your cure? A.—To the Starr pad. Cross-examination:—I was suffering very much at the time I put the pad on; there is a doctor in Enterprise village—Dr. Carscallen; I did not call him in; I was in Tamworth when I was taken bad; I had been up there; it was a sudden attack I had then. Q.—You did not think it, however, worth while to send for the doctor? A.—No, I did not. I had tried doctors before to no avail; the pain was getting worse all the time. I had not put the pad on when I was taken bad. I was taken bad about 6 o'clock, I put the pad on about 9 o'clock, and I got partial relief about 11 o'clock; the pain gradually wore off. Then I went out and got cold and was taken bad again; I went back to the house and put the pad on again, and got better. Q.—What was it you were suffering from? A.—Well, the doctors all decided it was Bright's disease of the kidneys. I got a fall some years ago; I thought my kidneys must be bad, because my water was so high colored. I had got a fall with a bag of peas on my back, and hurt or sprained my back. The pad I have right there in the mill yet. Q.—Mr. Osler—I hope you wont put it through the hopper. A.—No, I value the pad too highly. LANGLEY & Co., wholesale agents, Victaria, B. C. *

FAMILIAR WITH THE CASE.

The London correspondent of the New York Tribune has kindly undertaken to explain to our neighbors why their Executive has not made more progress than it has in pushing the claims of the New England fishermen to do as they please, right or wrong. Under date of Sept. 30 the correspondent states that the Government at Washington thinks it inopportune to push its cause now, but prefers to wait for some more opportune time, until Great Britain shall have succeeded in "bringing Canada to more reasonable views, and when the Canadian irritation has subsided a good understanding between the two countries may be embodied in a suitable treaty." We are disposed to regard this as a codfish thrown at the New England whale to ease the hunger for small fish with which he has returned home after a disastrous season's campaign. There is no irritation in Canada over this question. There is no need for any irritation, because Canada has had the best of the bargain all through. Canada's understanding of the subject matter in dispute is likewise good, and also cool. She understands her rights and the justice of her position, and understanding, dare maintain. She has no quarrel with the United States, nor even with that comparatively unimportant part of the United States which thinks that what is fish for one ought to be flesh for another. No Canadian Government dare yield to pressure what they would not grant to justice. No British Government dare put upon Canada a pressure that would insult the self-respect of both Britain and Canada. We are more powerful now in the councils of the Empire than ever before, and while we are anxious, as a people, to do nothing in the way of embarrassing any Imperial administration, we have, as Canadians, entrenched ourselves behind the resolve that we shall not give up to anybody anything that belongs to us without either a quid pro quo or an appeal to the highest tribunals open to this free people. A "good understanding!" Canada's understanding is all right. She understands the strength of her position.
